VOL. III. RALEIGH, N. C., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1867. NO. 103.

DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Proprietor.

A HAYTIEN WITNESS AGAINST GEN. HOWARD.

In one of his recent addresses, Gen. Howard drew a picture of the South, converted into a paradise by the hands of the pupils of the freedmen's bureau, educated by that institution into models of agricultural industry and thrift. It is the amiable anticipation of the pious head of the bureau that when the Southern States are "properly reconstructed," the landed estates of their white people will be broken up into small farms by a school tax so intolerable as to compel proprietors to sell to colored people on terms suitable to the latter.

This accomplished, a new and paradisical era is to begin. He tells the country to look forward to the event with satisfaction and await results with confidence. But he is by no means precise in pointing out the nature of the results that are to follow, and we would be remitted to loose conjecture in this regard, did we not have before our minds some examples elsewhere, of a condition of things similar to that which Gen. Howard is bent on establishing in the South. One of these examples is the nigritian portion of Africa; another is Jamaica. But Hayti is the one which especially commends itself to notice in this connection, from the fact that we have the testimony of an intelligent and outspoken Haytien witness, a colored man, the editor of Le Peuple, a newspaper of Port-au-Prince, as to the effects of making his race unconditional lords of the soil with every earthly encouragement and aid to become of all the world the most successful agriculturalists. Listen to the colored editor of the Haytien newspaper: "It might be well questioned," he says, "that Hayti, in the midst of the best conditions in the world for producing everything from her own resources, is notwithstanding, by a combination of sinister circumstances, absolutely wanting in everything. What must be the inference, then, of one who dispassionately looks at the matter? It is that this soil, so highly favored by nature, lacks an indispensable element, and this population, intelligent and well meaning, lacks a desire and a will. This element is labor; this desire is to do; this will is to succeed."

The colored journalist is especially indignant at the decay in Hayti of sugar production, in which at one time it surpassed all the other West India islands. "Is it not, in fact, deplorable," he says, "to see an island so remarkable for its fertility, a country which once produced by itself as much sugar as all the surrounding colonies united, drawing from abroad the sugar needed for its own consumption, when it need import nothing but what its soil and its industry cannot supply, such objects as are necessary to the manufacture of sugar, like the air which we do not produce, but which, to support life, we must borrow from the atmosphere." After further remarks, this Haytien journalist concludes that it is only by awakening in the colored people of Hayti "a moral force not now manifest, that the island can be saved from relapsing into a wilderness and its inhabitants into barbarism. "Without this moral force," he observes, "which these robust laborers lack, what remains for their mere brutal force to do but glut passions which long-continued idleness engenders?"

We trust that Gen. Howard, when hereafter sketching his anticipated paradise in the South, will, for the sake of truth, if not of poetry, fill up his outlines with illustrations drawn from the realities of Hayti.—N. O. Crescent.

From the Chicago Times.

A MISSING REPORT.

"The telegraph has informed the public somewhat with reference to the various reports of the Departments which will be presented to Congress. There is something said about what will be reported from the various ministerial bureaus, the War Department and other official institutions. There is one thing about which nothing has been hinted. There is one thing concerning which there is a profound silence. It is something of the highest importance. Hence the absence of all mention of it is inexplicable. What we refer to is the war in the South.

"As everybody knows, there are five military departments extending through ten States. There are five military officials of the rank of Major General. Each of these military officers has a force under his command. What we want to know is, what these five gallant captains have been doing in these five Southern departments with the five armies under their command.

"Of course, a history of the performances of these five armies, under the lead of five able veterans, would be of surpassing interest. It would include heroic exploits without number, bloodshed without end, and unequalled daring without limit. It is this history, embodied in the form of a report, that we miss from among those announced as forthcoming at the beginning of the session in December." * * * *

"Posterity thrills with enthusiasm when it reads how Cæsar crossed the Rubicon, and how, a little later, he carried the war into Africa. In the same way would this generation become 'enthused' could it know all that has been performed by the patriots who have held the South. We shall never know all; we can never know all. Exploits have occurred about dangerous hen-roosts, and in menacing proximity to kitchens, garrisoned with warlike women, that need only be related to render their actors forever famous. Newspapers have been charged upon, and many a contumacious white man has been made to experience the valor of the Federal arms.

"Look at the herculean nature of what has been accomplished by these five major generals! An entire population composed of negroes has been raked from its dens, brought forward to the registry lists, supplied with names, and forced to remember these names and to vote the Radical ticket. At the same moment that this colossal task was being performed, another population of whites has been repressed, held away from the registry lists, debarred from voting by every possible means; and thereby have the Radicals been able to carry all the Southern States.

"What we want is a report of these operations. Let us know how the whites were bullied and bayoneted into quietness, and how tens of thousands of negroes, who know no difference between the Constitution of the United States and the autocrasy of Russia, were arranged and drilled so as to vote the Radical ticket to a man. Let us know how much injustice, oppression and outrage were required to bring all this about. All these things, faithfully told, would be as full of interest as the thrilling account which Pope gave of his pursuit and capture of 20,000 rebels after the evacuation of Corinth.

RESTORATION NOT RECONSTRUCTION.—We are glad to see the Radical journals coming round to reasonable views. The New York Tribune, in reference to the action of Congress on financial affairs, can see that neither "expansion" nor "contraction" is exactly the thing to restore the country to prosperity. It says:

"What is needed most is the reconstruction of the South and the termination of the bitterness growing out of the war.—With this secured, the premium on gold will fast disappear, and there will spring up in Europe a demand for United States bonds at low interest sufficient to enable the treasury to resume specie payments with no fear of another suspension."

We agree with the Tribune entirely, and also with the comment of the New York Express on this subject, that there will never be peace nor prosperity under mere reconstruction. What is wanted is restoration—the restoration of the South to all its rights and privileges under the Constitution.—Nothing short of that will do, and that, it seems, is never to come so long as the Radical party is in power. So says the Baltimore Sun.

Valuable Property For Sale.

BY VIRTUE OF A DEED OF TRUST executed to me, by the late Wm. F. Collins, I will sell, on Monday, the 13th day of January, 1868, to the highest bidder, at the Court House door in Warrenton, the following valuable property:

The Tract of Land on which the late Wm. F. Collins resided, at the time of his death, situated in Warren County, on the Williamsboro' Road, two (2) miles from Ridgeway Depot, on the R. & G. R. R., and adjoining the lands of Jno. E. Jones, R. M. Collins and others, containing

ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-TWO (172) ACRES.

On this Tract are situated the celebrated RIDGEWAY MILLS, which are not surpassed in the manufacture of Flour by any in the State. The Mills are in first-rate running order.

There are on the premises a Dwelling House, the necessary out-houses, barns, stables, &c., for conducting a farm. The land is under good fences and in a high state of cultivation, about one-half the tract being in original woods, convenient to the House and Mill.

There is also a fine young Orchard of Apple and Peach trees, well selected, and several young vines of the scuppernong Grape.

Persons wishing to purchase would do well to examine the property before the sale.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1867.

THE MESSAGE.

As substantially remarked in the article, which we publish elsewhere, from the New York World, it is a splendid exhibition of moral intrepidity and patriotic courage, that the President should, at the very moment that articles of impeachment are impending over his head, re-iterate, in more emphatic terms than he has yet employed, his condemnation of the policy and aims of the Congressional Jacobins. In lofty independence and in boldness of utterance, unaccompanied by anything like bravado, but marked, on the contrary, by a courteous decision, the late message of the President is all that could have been expected from the Chief Magistrate of the American Union.

The puerile rage of the Radical leaders in Congress, manifested in their hesitancy about printing the usual number of copies of the message, is both contemptible and ridiculous, besides being suggestive that the President's blows are sharply felt. His citation of them to the results of the recent elections at the North, particularly, was a keen and cutting stroke, which was almost cruel.

The message is more in the nature of an appeal and an argument, addressed to the people, than one which is expected to reach the sense of Congress. The people have endorsed it in advance,—the impeachers have been impeached, and the President plainly intimates as much. Hence their fury.

THE VALUE OF THE PRESS.

Perhaps, in the present condition of affairs in the South, nothing occupies the thoughts of the people so much as their indebtedness and the difficulty of making provision for their families. The political condition of the country promises so little to encourage the hope of a speedy return to Constitutional government and the restoration of civil law, as we have once enjoyed them, that many are ceasing to interest themselves in public affairs, and thousands, who have lived, since the war, beyond the ordinary routes of public travel, we fear, are quite content to remain in blissful ignorance of passing events.

This we regard as most unfortunate.—Knowledge of what is passing, even though it may be unpleasant and harrassing, is far better than ignorance and indifference. If the present actors in the political drama now transacting in this country were alone concerned in the fate of the government, then, indeed, our people might shut their eyes and stop their ears, and concern themselves alone with matters immediately connected with their corporeal wants, but they are acting for the generations to come after them, for unborn millions, whose destinies are committed somewhat to their care.

We have already been too reckless, too apathetic, to the priceless treasure of a free government. Yielding too much, in days past, to the spirit of revolution and fanaticism, and drifting along too quietly with the current, thousands of white people in the South have become too indifferent to the political status of the country.

At such a time, an honest, conservative and truthful press is of great value, in keeping the public advised of passing events, and to recall public attention to the great landmarks of Constitutional liberty. But, to enable them to do this, they must be sustained by substantial aid. In the great scarcity of money which prevails in the South, nothing suffers more than the newspapers, whose reliance is alone upon the people.

CONSPIRACY.

The legal definition of a Conspirator, as laid down by the English law, from which our own is derived, is "one who binds himself by oath, covenant or other alliance, to assist another falsely and maliciously to indict a person," or to commit a crime, particularly treason.

According to this definition, the only parties in North Carolina, who are guilty of conspiracy, are the so called "Loyal" Leaguers. They are the only persons who are bound by a secret political oath to do anything. What is the exact nature of that oath, or of the several oaths which these men take in their clandestine conclaves, does not transpire. If we may judge of the character of the obligation, from the designs and purposes of those who belong to these secret organizations, as displayed in their public action, it is such as is inconsistent with the peace of the country and the integrity of the Constitutional Union.

In the Convention, which is shortly to assemble, these men, having a large predominance, will have an opportunity of showing unmistakably whether they desire tranquility, the supremacy of law and order, and restoration on safe and just principles. Should they evince such a disposition, and take proper steps to carry it into execution, there will be no difficulty in the way of its consummation. Should they fail to do so, we tell them that, at the proper time, there will be—not a secret conspiracy,—but bold, open, manly effort made to defeat their nefarious machinations against the peace and dignity of the State and the Union.

UNIVERSITY OF N. C.—We learn that the Hon. Thos. H. Seymour, of Connecticut, has been invited to deliver the annual address before the two Literary Societies of the University, at the next Commencement, and that he has accepted the invitation.—Gov. Seymour will doubtless give an admirable address.

NORTH CAROLINA FINANCES.

The Public Treasurer of the State has just issued a printed statement, showing the indebtedness of the State, and its assets.—We give a summary:

Bonds issued before and since the war,	$12,570,000
Bonds issued during the war for Internal Improvements,	1,120 000
	$13,690,000

To this must be added a small amount due on coupons, not yet ascertained.

The assets of the Public Treasury are as follows:

Stocks in Railroad Companies, &c.	$7,584,500
Bonds due by Corporations,	2,446,500
	$10,031,000

Besides these, the State has other interests, not estimated. The real value of its assets cannot be determined at present.

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

This body closed a very interesting session, at Wilmington, of seven days, on Tuesday night last.

The reports on the condition of the Church were satisfactory and hopeful. The state of the finances was not as good as desired, but the operations of the various benevolent enterprises have been vigorously prosecuted. Reports on Education, Parsonages, Bible cause, Sunday Schools, Temperance, and other subjects, were presented.

The sermons of Bishop Doggett, Drs. Reid, Closs, Craven, and Rev. Mr. Moran, are highly spoken of.

We have space only for the following report, in reference to the colored population, made by Rev. Mr. Barringer, Chairman:

"The Committee to whom was referred the religious interests of the colored people submit the following:

They have had the subject under consideration and do not conceive that it is necessary to present an extended report in the present condition of affairs. Our Church and Conference have made their record, and can appeal to past efforts and labors of a religious character to show the interest manifested in behalf of this class of the population; and we stand ready at all times, and in all proper ways, to do what we can to improve their changed relation. While numbers have placed themselves, by their own voluntary act, under the care of the colored churches which have been organized in our own territory, yet there are many who may still be reached through our efforts to spread Scriptural holiness over these lands. They should be earnestly cared for and actively looked after. We recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1st, That we feel a deep solicitude for the religious instruction and salvation of the colored population within our bounds.

Resolved 2d, That on all our charges, as far as possible, the colored people who are willing to put themselves under our care and receive the ordinances at our hands, be organized as required by the Discipline, page 106.

Resolved 3d, That special attention be given to the organization of Sunday Schools among the colored people.

The Committee have also had under their consideration a paper coming before them on the subject of licensing and ordaining colored Ministers, and recommend that the following rules in the premises be adopted:

1. That no one be licensed to preach until he is recommended by the Church of which he is a member. He must be a man of good moral character, of sound judgment in things pertaining to salvation, with a good degree of utterance.

2. No one shall be ordained to Deacon's orders unless, in addition to the qualifications of a licentiate, he can read the Bible distinctly, write a legible hand, and is acquainted with the duties of a Deacon.

3. That no one shall be ordained an Elder unless, in addition to his qualifications as a Deacon, he understands well the duties of an Elder in the Church."

Statesville was fixed upon as the place for the next Conference.

JNO. R. FRENCH, the Radical delegate elect from Chowan, immediately after the election left for his home in Washington City. The Transcript expresses the hope that he may never return.

General Hancock's snub to Louisiana loyalty is as follows:

VICKSBURG, MISSISSIPPI, Nov. 26.

Hon. B. King Cutler, President of Committee:

SIR:—Having observed by the New Orleans press that it is proposed by a Committee, of which you are President, under the direction of the "Executive State Central Committee of the Union Party of New Orleans," to receive me on my arrival in your city, I beg respectfully to decline the same. My tastes and intention will lead me to decline receptions of political parties and, indeed, all others of a public character, from whatever sources, save such as may relate to official matters connected with my administration of affairs in the Fifth Military District.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
WINFIELD S. HANCOCK,
Major-General U. S. A.

CHEATING PENNSYLVANIA.—In looking over the lists of white negroes who have been elected as delegates to the Mongrel State Conventions in the South, we have not noticed the name of a single Pennsylvanian. How does that happen? A large majority of the dirty scamps who disgrace a white skin by seeking a seat in these bogus bodies are recently imported Northerners. New England sends dozens of cadaverous slab sided Yankees to represent different districts. The extreme Northwestern States have their full share of filthy fellows who are setting up for Congress in strong negro districts. But Pennsylvania, stupid old Dutch Pennsylvania, has been cheated out of her proper share of the spoils. How could that have happened? Had we no clerks in the Freedmen's Bureau and hangers on about the armies, no teachers of negro schools, nothing out of which to manufacture a Southern Statesman of the new school? The matter is worthy of Congressional investigation, and we call the attention of Mr. Stevens to it. Let him attend to the matter at once.

General Leslie Combs, of Kentucky, who was a captain in 1812—the composer of Clay, Webster, Crittenden, and the friend and companion of Generals Harrison, Tyler, Winchester, and Scott—may be seen daily in the streets of Lexington, straight as an arrow, hale and hearty, and looks as if he might live for twenty years to come. He has not an unsound tooth or grey hair in his head, and never carries a cane. Only the other night he went out hunting with some boys, and had the good luck to capture three opossums and a coon. General Combs was a Union man throughout the late war, but is Conservative in his opinions and feelings. He is very fond of society, and is much beloved by his family and friends.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

HILLSBORO, N. C. Dec. 2-1, 1867.

MESSRS EDITORS:—A short notice of the "North Carolina Military and Polytechnic Academy," which appeared in the Daily Sentinel, a few days ago, in connection with the Editor's acknowledgement of an invitation to attend the Commencement party at the close of the session on the 28th. of November, suggests to me the propriety of tendering my services as your "correspondent" for the occasion. Would that we had a Mrs. Downing among us, whose ready pen would not require the aid of fancy to do justice to that charming entertainment. The Academy, you are aware, is beautifully situated about a mile and a half from the town of Hillsboro,' and a few hundred yards from the N. C. Railroad, and, to reach it, the guests, on the occasion referred to, revelled in a walk or ride over the hills and dales, which so picturesquely contrast with the more towering crests of the Occoneechee Mountains, on the opposite side of the Eno; and so refreshed, and not fatigued, by the bracing exercise, they were well prepared to enter with zest into the gaieties which awaited them; while, gracefully welcomed with polished hospitality, they entered the portals which swung far back to receive them, as strains of sweetest music saluted their arrival. Then mingled together in charming confusion were the "Beauty and the Chivalry" of the evening, in an apartment most beautifully and tastefully decorated with all the insignia of the institution, interspersed with paintings, with garlands and with evergreens, making up a scene of enchantment, where the offerings of science and art were combined with those of nature to celebrate the meeting of grace with youth. At an early hour the leader of the band of stringed instruments announced the time for dancing, and the "gentlemen" having accepted the invitation to "get their partners," the "Portland Fancy," "Lancers," &c., were executed in a style that would have done credit to the "lightest" and the most "fantastic toe," that ever hopped at Yarborough's. And thus the minutes sped away until the 12 o'clock gun gave the startling, but not unwelcome, signal for refreshments. But I will not attempt to tell of all the good things, under which those tables were so refreshingly hid, for fear you should too sadly feel your loss; and besides my paper is too scarce to admit of any kind of justice to that bill of fare, to describe which fairly would do credit to the reputation of Byron, or "any other man."

Finally, the crowing heralds of the coming day reminded us that 'twas time to bid adieu to scenes so fascinating, and, with many regrets that we could stay no longer, we said "good-night" to our host, and left for home and for dreams. Before closing let me add that, besides the many polite attentions of the officers and the ladies of the establishment, the courteous and gentle manly bearing of the cadets to all the guests, and especially to the ladies, contributed, in a great measure, to the enjoyment of the evening, and served to confirm in the minds of all the universal opinion of our citizens, that the manners and general behavior of these young gentlemen reflect the highest credit both upon themselves and the discipline of the Institution with which they are connected. It is gratifying to know that the prospects of this Academy are very encouraging; that under the able superintendance of Gen Colston, the number of cadets is increasing, and that the hopes of its friends are saugnine that its success will ere long be as complete as when the outbreak of the late war dispersed its over flowing ranks to scenes of severer duties.

P.

THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

The Richmond Dispatch draws the following picture of the dirty concern now in Richmond, called a "Convention":

"There were abundant signs of the great change that had come upon the State and the ridiculous metamorphosis of the body representative at the capitol. Negroes filled the galleries, and many stood around in the passages of the hall and occupied the privileged seats. That restricted commerce in fruits and confections formerly conducted by very decent looking females of the old school only in the hall was expanded into a more comprehensive trade, which included ginger bread, the commoner kind of candies, pop, and such solid things, of hues various, as are displayed about the Square on Fourth of July, for the refreshment of colored persons. The retailers had enlarged their privileges and flanked the ways to the broad steps leading into the capitol with their tables and carts.

Thus began the day of burlesque, the day of hideous buffoonery, in the noble old temple of Virginia legislation, where the greatest men of the age have deliberated upon State and national affairs. It is not possible that the fame and glory of such a State as Virginia are to pass away and be lost in doings of such a conclave as this. Created by fraud and outrage—outrage of the Constitution and every principle of humanity, every dictate of wisdom, its life must be brief and its deeds must die with it.

The small body of gentlemen who represent Virginia are intelligent and wise; but helpless. Negroes and foreigners have all their own way; and we shall soon see their line of policy. But what of the policy of such men? It can never endure so long as the spirit of Virginia animates her sons. The greatness and grandeur of a community, unsurpassed for heroism, wisdom, and virtue, must entirely die out and perish utterly before such a mongrel, ignorant and depraved body of men as rule this Convention can be suffered to direct the affairs of this noble old Commonwealth. When her sons prove recreant, lose their manhood and their faith, then, and not till then, will the State be given up to degradation and dishonor. This is the question; and we know too well the people of this State—their spirit and fortitude have been too well proved—to permit us to doubt the result. The true spirit of the Virginia people will rise superior to adversity, and triumphantly drive out the thieves and satyrs who have invaded the State."

Dr. Livingstone's safety, reported some time ago by the Atlantic cable, was announced on the authority of a letter written to the London Times, by Dr. Roderick I. Murchison, President of the Royal Geographical Society. Dr. Murchison says: "I have this day received a letter from Dr. Kirk at Zanzibar, dated the 28th of September, stating that he has seen a native trader who has just returned from the Western side of Lake Tanganyika and who gave him a detailed account of having seen a white man traveling in that remote region." The "white man" is supposed to be Dr. Livingstone.

DEFEAT OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONVENTION.—We learned from a well-informed source yesterday, that information had been received at headquarters of the defeat of the convention. The precise majority is not known, though it is estimated from five to eight hundred. It is also stated that sixty-two thousand votes were cast, which makes a discrepancy with the number of the majority above given, as one hundred and thirty-three thousand, three hundred and sixty names are represented to have been registered, which increases the majority to about four thousand five hundred. This seals the fate of the Mississippi State "Convention."—Vicksburg Herald.

From the New York World

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

We spread before the readers of the World, this morning, President Johnson's Annual Message, telegraphed to us last evening from Washington.

Though not equal in condensed strength of writing and closeness of logic to some of President Johnson's former messages, particularly the incomparable veto of the first Reconstruction act, it is inferior to none of them in the higher qualities of masculine intrepidity and political courage. With an impeachment suspended over him, as it were by a single thread, he remonstrates in a most unqualified and dauntless spirit, against all the favorite measures of Congress, whose absurdity he exposes, whose mischievous consequences he depicts, whose repugnance to the Constitution he demonstrates, in as firm a tone as if the path of duty were beset with no dangers. This unyielding moral intrepidity amply atones for any want of novelty in the arguments and some what of terseness in their statement. Novelty was not to be expected on the subject already so thoroughly threshed out; and we account for the diffuseness by the consideration that this manly document, though immediately addressed to Congress, is intended by the President as an appeal to the great body of the people. When the arguments against the reconstruction scheme were first presented, the President might as well have reasoned with the wind, or with the waves of the sea; but the autumn elections indicate a great lull in the popular passions, and, in the more rational temper of the public mind which now exists, it is proper that the arguments should be restated with a fullness and simplicity which brings them to the level of popular apprehension.

Reversing the old order of topics, by which the foreign relations stood foremost in an annual message, President Johnson postpones them to the close, and launches at once into the question which is first in dignity, first in importance, and first in popular interest—that of a Union still disevered by unconstitutional legislation in spite of a successful war for its restoration. The inconsistency of the Congressional policy with the Constitution, with the professed objects of the war, with the principles of free government, with the action of Congress itself in asking the Southern States to ratify amendments to the Constitution, and with various adjudications of the Supreme Court, is exposed with luminous clearness, although the effect of the reasoning is somewhat impaired by needless amplification and repetitions which add nothing to its force. But when the most obvious truisms are stubbornly disputed, what resource remains to a reasoner but excessive simplification?

When the President advances from the constitutional discussion and gives his views of the unfitness of the negroes for the elective franchise, he does not tread in so trite a path; and his arguments, if not more concisive, have more freshness. In his former messages he has rested on the position that Congress had no authority to confer the suffrage on the negroes. He now shows that it is not a fit thing to do if they had. We commend this part of the message to the thoughtful perusal of every man with white blood in his veins, and who desires the perpetuity of our free institutions. The President shows that the political power of the South is vested in the negroes not only at a time when they are most unfit to wield it, but at a time when more wisdom and foresight are needed in the affairs of that section than at any former or any future period. Its whole social and industrial organization has been tumbled into chaos and needs to be rebuilt. All its interests are in a state of prostration, and it requires ripe experience and great local knowledge to lift them up and replace them upon their feet. Even if negro government over the white men were sufferable at all, it would be the height of absurdity to take the negroes when they are most disqualified and lay on them the task of reorganizing Southern society at a time when the problem is the most difficult and requires the most consummate wisdom.

The next topic on which the President touches is one of much delicacy; but the juncture called for boldness and he has nobly honored the draft. He tells Congress, in language significant enough to be easily understood, that if it undertakes to annihilate the executive department of the government, he shall resist its encroachments by force. He sincerely deprecates civil war; he thinks it would be the last resort for the redress of intolerable and otherwise incurable evils; he has executed the Reconstruction laws although in palpable violation of the Constitution, because there was still a remedy in the returning good sense of Northern voters; but, without naming the project to suspend him during a trial for impeachment, he intimates with clearness enough to be understood, and decision enough to show that he is in earnest, that he shall not submit to be deposed in that manner.

AN AMENDATORY RECONSTRUCTION ACT—WHAT IT PROPOSES—FINANCIAL SCHEMES—BUTLER'S TACTICS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.

A bill amending the reconstruction acts will be introduced into the Senate this week, and, the impression is, will receive favorable consideration in both bodies. This bill will propose to abolish all restriction on the right of franchise, so as to allow all persons, white and black, to vote, without reference to the past. It also removes the disabilities imposed by Congress from such of the leading men in the Southern States as may have aided in securing an execution of the reconstruction acts, and it substitutes a majority of persons voting for the majority of those registered in determining the question of State Conventions. The Radicals profess to see the error they made in this last respect in the result of the South Carolina elections. In that State they had the largest majority of registered voters, and yet failed to secure a Convention.

The financial schemes of the various Radical leaders are being ventilated by the respective cliques of the party, and it is amusing to hear the criticisms which are constantly being made. For instance, those who are opposed to General Butler's wild policy profess to understand the motives which prompt it and have let out a little secret of the General's which they say explains the whole matter. In October, 1865, Butler visited President Johnson and urged him to stand by the Radical wing of the Republican party, saying: "Mr. Johnson, you can be our nominee for the next Presidency, and as the Democrats will run Grant, you can beat him to death." The President humorously replied: "But I believe General Butler is a candidate." "No, sir," rejoined his visitor, "General Butler will not be a candidate in 1868, but he will be in 1872." And this declaration, his party friends say, Butler is struggling to make good by his demagogueism on the currency question, and declare that so corrupt do they now regard his selfishness that they are forced to credit all the tales told of the General in connection with his amassing his immense wealth at New Orleans. The story of Butler's interview with the President I have from a Radical Senator to whom Butler related it at the time.

$50 Reward.

ON SATURDAY NIGHT LAST my Horse was stolen from my premises, in Sampson County. The horse is dark-colored sorrel, but inclined to gray; a small spot on each side of his back, nearly white, caused probably by the saddle; a little white on one of the hind feet, near the hoof. He was four years old last Spring, and is good-sized, though slim-built, and not in very good order.

I have reason to believe that the horse was stolen by a black man, formerly in my employ.—He is slim-built, with very suspicious looking eyes, about five feet ten inches high, wore a drab-colored, slouched hat, a light colored sack coat, rather short, with pants of the same color and much worn.

I will pay a reward of Twenty-five dollars for the recovery of the horse, or fifty dollars for his recovery and sufficient evidence to convict the thief. ERASMUS B. LEE.

DR. J. J. LAWRENCE.—Dear Sir—Please send me immediately per Express to Tarboro, two dozen more bottles of your Rosadalis. I have carefully examed its Formula, and have used it in my practice in a number of cases. I am well pleased with it. I think it, beyond doubt, the best Alterative ever used. I have tried it in several cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Affections, &c., with much satisfaction to myself and patients. I have also used it in Secondary and Teritary Syphilis, [one a terrible case of eight years' standing,] in which it acted with surprising and satisfactory effect—making a quick and thorough cure. I have, therefore, no hesitation in recommending it to Physicians and others, as the most reliable Alterative now known.

A Wonderful Cure of Scrofulous White Swelling.

HOME CERTIFICATE.

I hereby certify, that last September I was attacked with White Swelling of the left knee—and also with an enlargement of the glands of the neck—[one tumor reached a large size.] The swelling of the knee was enormous, and was attended with the most excruciating pains. I was so reduced that I was confined to my room over three months. My leg was so completely drawn up, that I could not bend it at all. I tried various remedies, and they failed to give me any relief. I was in this condition when I commenced taking Dr. Lawrence's Rosadalis. The swelling in the knee and neck began to subside before I took all of the first bottle. By the time I took the second bottle, the swelling of the neck entirely disappeared and that of the knee nearly so. After taking three bottles I found myself completely well—able to walk as well as ever, &c.

Consumption, in its Early Stage, can be Cured.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 4th, 1867.

Dear Dr. Lawrence—My daughter having been cured of a deeply seated disease of the lungs by your "Rosadalis," I feel it my duty to make the fact known to you for the benefit of others. She suffered nearly two years with a hard cough which troubled her day and night; at last the emaciated form, glossy eye, night sweats, together with the cough, told too plainly that it was Consumption, beyond question, calling at her vitals. Physician's remedies brought no relief. She was advised to try your Rosadalis, as a tonic which she did—imagine my surprise and gratification when I found her appetite returning. Slowly she regained her strength, her cough and night sweats gradually ceased, and she is now, after taking five bottles of your medicine, apparently as well as ever.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. E. ANN SMITH.

Salt Rheum Cured! Remarkable Cure!!

DR. LAWRENCE, Wilson, N. C.:

My Dear Sir—For the last ten years (until recently) I suffered with an inveterate eruption of the skin, called by physicians "Salt Rheum," with which I suffered terribly; the pain and itching was almost intolerable. I tried several of the best physicians in Europe and this country, have visited several celebrated Springs, spent thousand of dollars—and failed to get any relief. In December 1865, being in Charleston S. C., I was told by a gentleman at the hotel, that he had been cured of a bad letter by a medicine called "Rosadalis." I resolved to try it, without any hope though of its doing me any good. I proceeded a bottle of Messr

NEW FIRM.—Messrs. Charles D. Christophers and R. H. Bradley have purchased the Confectionery establishment of Wm. Give them a call,—especially about Christmas times.

THE MARKET is supplied, every morning, with everything in the eating line that is necessary for a good table. Beef is abundant and excellent. Pork, in almost any quantities, may be purchased, at prices ranging from nine to ten cents.

MASONIC.—The Grand Lodge of North Carolina, which has been in session, in this City, since Monday last, was to have adjourned last evening, and, we presume, did so. The session has been an unusually protracted and laborious one, and we learn that much important business has been transacted. The attendance has been almost unprecedentedly large,—some of the brightest Masons, as well as most prominent men, in the State having been present.

The election of Mr. Best as Grand Master is a merited compliment to that gentleman and to his Masonic and personal standing.

FREEDMEN'S SAVINGS BANK.—One of the neat store-rooms beneath the National Bank building is being fitted up for this institution, which, it is said, will shortly go into operation.

N. C. PRESBYTERIAN.—On the 1st. of January, 1868, this paper will pass under the sole management and control of the Rev. Jno. M. Sherwood. We regard the Presbyterian as one of the most excellent religious publications in the country, and it merits a commanding patronage.

NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD.—The following statement of the operations of this Road, for the month of October, presents a highly flattering exhibit:

Earnings for the month,	$55,907 85
Expenses "	26,068 52
Nett profit	$29,839 33

The nett profit for the same month, last year, amounted to $2,561.21,—showing a clear gain of $27,278.12.

WE LEARN that pork is selling in Edgecombe at six cents per pound. The farmers, having lost so heavily on cotton, are compelled to raise money, at whatever sacrifice, on something else. No one believes that pork will begin to pay the expense of raising it at such a price.

The ruin of the South and its people, under Radical rule, is well-nigh complete. A little more "legislation" will give the finishing stroke to all its interests of whatever character.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.

GREAT MEETING IN NORFOLK.

NORFOLK, December 3, 1867.

Last night will be a night long remembered in Norfolk. The deep gloom which so long hung over our community—a gloom which has caused the spirits of the white man to droop—a gloom which has been felt in every hamlet, and town, and city, and State of the South—was shaken off in our city by an enthusiastic meeting of our citizens, and resulted in the formation of a strong and active white man's party.

A call was issued during the day, stating that ex-Governor Vance, of North Carolina, had consented to address the citizens at the court house at half past 6 o'clock. Long before that hour the hall was packed. A spirit for a long time unknown to our people seemed to animate them—a spirit Caucasian in its nature, which made the breast throb and the heart beat—a spirit, which showed that our people were aroused, and that they wished to send forth to their sister cities the glad announcement that Norfolk had stepped into line and was prepared to do her duty.

At the appointed hour Governor Vance was introduced to the vast multitude by C. W. Newton, Esq., in a graceful manner. The Governor was received by enthusiastic applause, and his speech was able, suiting the occasion, and replete in eloquence and truth. The loud cheers which greeted the speaker testified to the deep feeling of the populace. Their pent-up feelings gave vent at the recitation of their grievances and wrongs, and the vast crowd surged to and fro in accord with the eloquent remarks of the speaker. Governor Vance stated, in commencement, that great issues were at stake, startling in their nature and momentous in their importance. The great political party which rules the country wished the people of the South to give their consent to measures disgraceful to their honor, and ignominious to the manhood of its people. It could not do it. He was willing to grant the negro the privileges which the North had granted them, and nothing more. Were we to grant them more, we would be prostitute to all feelings of manhood, and detested and scorned by the civilization of the age. What would be the result of negro suffrage and negro rule? The property holders of the country would have to bear all the burthen, and all the power would be invested in the hands of those who had nothing to lose—in the hands of a race ignorant and savage, and governed and ruled by white men meaner in spirit and more degraded in spirit than the negroes. Capital will take its flight from the land, and the credit of the States of the South would be worthless. Should this power be invested in the hands of this party, a terrible administration would be the consequence—the fellow whipped to-day for thieving would sit in the jury box to-morrow.

The South is almost ruined now, but should negro supremacy rule, she is ruined forever. Our great staple, cotton, is dead; its cultivation to-day is not worth the cost of its production. Four years of war and three years of unconstitutional and wrongful tax have served to make it valueless. Confiscation, by the supremacy of this power, is threatened. This expression might be laughed at, but it was literally true. But a greater danger than confiscation was to be dreaded, and that was the rule of white men meaner and more despicable than negroes, whose only interest was power—whose only virtue was plunder. He was not afraid of the negro—the happiest days of his life spent among them, and he could never forget their kindness and constancy during the war. They would soon learn who were their true friends, and find out the miserable character of those who now led and used them.

With universal suffrage constitutional liberty is dead in this country. When that is accomplished the demagogue will rule, his friends will be pensioned, and his enemies will be denied all rights. To prevent all these dread results the only relief of the South was in a thorough organization: the banding together of all the white men in the Southern States for the protection of their rights. We cannot be blamed for this; it has been forced upon us. In conclusion, he made a most eloquent appeal to Virginians. They had no idea what influence their State had upon its Southern sisters. They had followed her in her acts from the Revolution. Virginia had been her guide. Carolina's sons have followed Virginia's in every field of battle—in the red glare of the tempestuous fight. Virginia's soil is red with the noblest blood of the South. We have followed her and looked up to her in those big hours. We look upon her now; and if she fails, O Lord God! what shall we say? He could not believe that the white race—the race of Milton and Shakespeare—would be subdued in the land of Washington, Jefferson and Henry. Let Virginia organize, and victory was in her hands. She would be followed by her sister States, and the great triumph of the white race would extend all over the country.

At the conclusion of his speech the Governor was greeted with rapturous cheers, and the meeting, after adopting the platform of the Constitutional Union Club, adjourned.

THE COTTON TAX.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5, M.

The haste of the Committee on Ways and Means, in pushing through the repeal of the Cotton Tax in a shape which can give no relief until next year, is regarded as absurd. The friends of the South are very indignant at this perversion, as they claim, of the generous views of the Northern people, as expressed at the polls. There are slender hopes that the Senate will insist on retrenchment, or at least immediate abolishment.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5, P. M.

The report made to the Radical caucus, states that 178 speakers have been added by the Committee, and many more have been employed, with pecuniary assistance by the State Committees, to the force already in the South, in the interest of the Radical party.

The following is Mr. Wilson's bill, introduced yesterday:

Be it enacted, That so much of the several acts relating to reconstruction, as required a majority of the registered voters to determine any election, or the ratification of Constitutions framed by Conventions elected under the present provisions of said acts, is hereby repealed, and at any election which has been, or may hereafter be held, for Conventions or ratifications of Constitutions framed thereby, a majority of the votes cast at such election shall determine the result.

There will be no withdrawal of legal tenders during December.

The debt statement for November will be issued to-morrow, showing an increase of the debt of ten or twelve millions of dollars.

Revenue receipts to-day $751,000.

Private advices state that the U. S. steamers De Soto and Monongahela were lost during the recent West India hurricane. The larger portion of the crew of the De Soto, and a portion of the crew of Monongahela were saved.

The sale of the Government interest in the Dismal Swamp Canal is postponed till the 2d of January.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—P. M.

Senate.—A bill was introduced to convert registered bonds into coupon bonds, and to provide for appeals from the Court of Claims.

Grant was called on for the number of white and colored persons who registered, and who voted, and the number of whites disfranchised.

A resolution to print the usual number of copies of the message was adopted.

A bill striking "white" from the laws and ordinances of the District was discussed.

Messrs. Johnson, of Maryland, and Hendricks, of Indiana, taunted the extremists, whose States had repudiated their doctrines.

Mr. Wilson advised the opposition Senators to be more modest, saying that Congress was always ahead of the people, but the people came up in good time. Because the people faltered, there was no reason why Congress should swerve from the right path.

Mr. Morton, of Indiana, said that the feeling against the rebellion, its aiders and abettors was as strong as ever, and ten years hence would be stronger. The bill passed 29 to 8.

It is Sumner's bill of last session, and abolishes every distinction.

The bill pledging coin for the bonded debt was resumed, elaborately discussed, and laid over.

House.—Mr Williams, of Indiana, introduced a bill, funding the interest bearing debt, and taxing the same, to form a sinking fund for the liquidation of the same.

The Ways and Means Committee was instructed to enquire into the expediency of exempting from tax, the products of homesteads.

Mr. Paine, introduced a bill for the more effectual government of the Rebel States. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Ashley of Ohio, introduced a bill to facilitate the restoration of the rebel States.

The Blake and Goldsday contested Kentucky election case came up. Both were allowed an hour.

Blake consumed his hour, and was further indulged to silence of Kentucky, and personal disparagements.

Goldsday contended with a brief, but eloquent defense of Judge Hise. The Committee's report in his favor, was almost unanimously adopted and he was sworn in.

Messrs. Trimble, Brown, and Young, of the Kentucky delegation remain excluded.

The Impeachment was resumed.

The Speaker said that expressions of applause or otherwise, would lead to the clearing of the galleries and like demonstrations on the part of members would lead them to the Bar of the House.

Mr. Boutwell who has the opening speech, was allowed unlimited time. Early in his speech, he argued against suspension during the final decision. Before he concluded the House adjourned.

VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

RICHMOND, Dec. 5, P. M.

The Conservative members retain the seats occupied by them yesterday.

A proposition was made that no bidder should take the contract for printing, who could not take the ironclad oath. The matter was finally referred to a select Committee.

A resolution was introduced that the members and officers be sworn in. Answering an enquiry, the mover said he supposed the oath to be taken was the test oath prescribed by Congress.

The resolution was laid on the table.

The snow was four inches deep along the line of the Central Road to-day.

ALABAMA CONVENTION.

MONTGOMERY, Dec. 5, P. M.

Mr. Greeley recently wrote to Senator Wilson, to exert his influence to restrain the Alabama Convention from adopting extreme measures.

Senator Wilson writes Gen. Swayne that the policy pursued by the Convention in, legislating and in other ways transcending their authority, and the ultra speeches of Bingham and men of that class, is doing great injury to reconstruction, and bringing odium on the Republican party.

The Convention, to-day, adopted an ordinance providing for the submission of the Constitution to the registered voters, on the 4th of February, 1868. Members of the General Assembly, members of Congress, and all State and County officers to be elected at the same time. The returns are to be made to the President of the Convention, who shall give certificates to the persons elected. The State and County officers to assume office, as soon as the State is admitted into the Union.

The General Assembly is to assemble in Montgomery, March 18th., 1868.

The vote on the passage of the ordinance was, yeas 66, nays 13.

By this ordinance the elections are under the complete control of the military.

The Convention will request the Military Commander of this District to enforce its provisions.

The article on the franchise has been amended so that all persons are disfranchised, who are disqualified from holding office by the Howard amendment, except such persons as aided in the reconstruction proposed by Congress, and accept the practical equality of all men before the law, provided, that the Legislature shall have power to remove the disabilities incurred under this clause.

GEORGIA CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

MACON, Dec. 5—P. M.

The Conservative Convention met to-day at 11 o'clock, and is one of the largest bodies ever assembled in this State. Hon. R. H. Hill was elected President.

LIFE LEAVES.

The day, with its sandals dipped in dew,
Has passed through the evening's golden gates,
And a single star in the cloudless blue,
For the rising moon in silence waits;
While the winds that sigh to the languid hours
A lullaby breathe o'er the folded flowers,

The lilies nod to the sound of the stream
That winds along with a lulling flow,
And, either awake or half in a dream,
I pass through the realms of Long Ago;
While faces peer with many a smile
From the bowers of Memory's magic isle.

There are joys and sunshine, sorrows and tears,
That check the path of life's April hours,
And a longing wish for the coming years,
That Hope ever wreathes with the fairest flowers;
There are friendships guileless—love as bright
And pure as the stars in the halls of night.

There are ashen memories, bitter pain,
And buried hopes and a broken vow,
And an aching heart by the restless main,
And the sea-breeze fanning a pallid brow;
And a wanderer on the shell-lined shore,
Listening for voices that speak no more.

There are passions strong and ambitions wild,
And the fierce desire to stand in the van
Of the battle of life—and the heart of the child
Is crushed in the breast of the struggling man;
But short the regrets and few are the tears
That fall at the tomb of the vanished years.

There's a quiet and peace, and domestic love,
And joys arising from faith and truth,
And a love unpresuming, far above
The passionate dreaming of ardent youth;
And kisses of children on lip and cheek,
And the parent's bliss, which no tongue can speak.

There are loved ones lost! there are little graves
In the distant dell, 'neath protecting trees,
Where the streamlet winds, and the violet waves,
And the grasses sway to the sighing breeze;
And we mourn for the pressure of tender lips,
And the light of eyes darkened in death's eclipse.

And thus, as the glow of the daylight dies
And the night's first look to the earth is cast,
I gaze 'neath those beautiful summer skies,
At the pictures that hang on the wall of the past;
Oh! Sorrow and Joy, chant a mingled lay
When to Memory's wildwood we wander away!

SHAWS AND STRAWS.—An incident is mentioned by a correspondent, who was desired by his mother to go to neighbor Shaw's and see if he had any straw suitable for filling beds. "Mr. Shaw," says our informant, "was blessed with a goodly number of Misses Shaw, and I therefore felt a little timid at encountering them, and to make the matter worse, I arrived just as the family were seated at dinner. Stepping in the doorway, hat in hand, I stammered out, 'Mr. Straw, can you spare me enough Shaw to fill a couple of beds?' 'Well,' replied the old gentleman, glancing around at his large family, and enjoying my mistake, 'I don't know but I can; how many will you need?' Before I could recover, those hateful Shaw girls burst into a chorus of laughter, and I made a very hasty exit."

Ladies at the present time have more lives than a cat, for each night they "shuffle off the mortal coil."

Why is a husband like a Mississippi steamboat? Because he never knows when he may get a blowing up.

A lady condemning the wearing of mustaches declared, "It is one of the fashions I set my face against."

An exchange says that the Indian chief, Billy Bowlegs, is called, by fashionable ladies, William Cruikshanks.

"I love thee still," as the quiet husband said to the chattering wife.

An inhuman editor in the West quotes Tupper's "A babe in the house is a well spring of joy" and begins "well" with an h.

What is the difference between a setter dog and a drunken sot? One hies on to get the scent, the other gets high on every cent.

"John, did Mrs. Green get the medicine I ordered?" "I guess so," replied John, "for I saw crape on the door next morning."

A Western editor says that the gas in the city is so bad that the man who puts it out has to carry a lantern to find the lamp posts.

"Do you like codfish balls, Mr. Wigging?" Mr. Wigging, hesitatingly, "I really don't know, Miss; I don't recollect attending one."

"Well, my boy, do you know what 'syntax means?" said a schoolmaster to a pupil. "Yes, sir," was the reply; "the duty on spirits."

The height of modesty is that of the young lady, who, desiring a leg of chicken at table, said: "I'll take the part that ought to be dressed in drawers."

Mrs. Jenkins complained in the evening that the turkey she had eaten in the evening did not set well. "Probably," said Jenkins, "it was not a hen turkey."

A divine preached on Sunday morning from the text, "Ye are the children of the devil," and in the afternoon, by a funny coincidence, "Children, obey your parents."

A lady and gentlemen conversing on dancing, the latter said that he preferred the round dances. "Unlike me," returned the female, "for I love a good square dance."

A dilapidated old darky in Montgomery, while watching the monkeys in a menagerie in that city on Friday, spoke thusly: "Dem children got too much sense to come outen dat cage; white folks out dar talls off and set 'em to votin' and makin' constitewtions."

Sambo had been whipped for stealing his master's onions. One day he brought in a skunk in his arms; says he, "Massa, here's de chap dat steal de ingerns! Whew—smell him breff!"

A gentleman at a musical party asked a friend, in a whisper, "How shall I stir the fire without interrupting the music?" "Between the bars," replied the friend.—[Ex.

"No, father isn't a drone, either," said a bright lad; "he's a philanthropist and collects money for the heathen in Africa to pay for our houses and things."

THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER.
This Portable, Self-Acting Fire Engine
IS OFFERED TO THE

Public as a ready, certain and speedy means of preventing LARGE CONFLAGRATIONS.
Until the invention of the Portable, Self-Acting Fire Engine,
Fires have been met by means too slow, too late and too cumbrous. But few persons in this country have the advantage of large hand or Steam Fire Engines, and those few often suffer a total loss of their property by reason of the great length of time consumed in sending for and getting them into working order.
BUT NOT SO WITH THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER, which being kept charged and standing in your House, Store or Factory, is always Ready for Instant Service.
The fire can be extinguished and your property saved without loss or damage, or even an alarm of Fire.
The first few minutes of conflagration decide the fate of the property; a little fire is quickly put out, which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench.
THE EXTINGUISHER, being very simple in its operation, and entirely self-propelling, requires no previous skill or practice to operate it, and being so light, portable and self-acting, is capable of being used in any place, by any person, male or female.
It puts out all fires, arising from whatever cause. You are saved from the immense water damage caused by large Engines.
You can effect insurance on your property
At Lower Rates,
if protected by the Extinguisher.
The Extinguisher is no humbug, as thousands of good men in Europe and America will testify. I have already put these little Engines into some of our best Factories and largest Schools in N. C.
No House, Store, Factory or Corporation is safe without them.
The price is as nothing, compared with the protection they afford.
Send for a Circular.
